Connexion Technologies wins 2009 Cornerstone Award

Fiber-optic amenity company wins major award at Broadband Properties Summit

Cary, North Carolina, May 1, 2009 – Broadband Properties awarded Connexion Technologies a 2009 Cornerstone Award this week. The organization gave a total of three awards nationwide to companies who contributed to the growth and continued innovation of Fiber to the Home (FTTH) delivery to end users.

Carter Steg, Connexion Technologies EVP of Sales and Corporate Marketing, accepted the award on behalf of the company at the 2009 Broadband Properties Summit, an annual conference of FTTH industry leaders.

“We were very impressed with Connexion this year,” said Scott DeGarmo, CEO of Broadband Properties. “The judges were most struck by Connexion’s excellence in retrofitting existing communities with fiber.”

Connexion Technologies changed its business model recently to enable the installation of fiber-optic networks in existing properties. The use of Corning® ClearCurve® optical fiber, which is hundreds of times more bendable than standard single-mode fiber, was critical to the success of this solution.

“This solution has enabled us to seamlessly integrate our services on a common IP platform,” said Dan Waugh, Connexion’s Director of New Product Introduction. “We can maintain quality, lower costs and dramatically increase the speed of deployment.”
